A Ceremony of Carols, Op. 28, is a choral piece by Benjamin Britten, scored for three-part treble chorus, solo voices, and harp. Written for Christmas, it consists of eleven movements, with text from The English Galaxy of Shorter Poems, edited by Gerald Bullett. The text is principally in Middle English, with some Latin and Early Modern English. The piece was written in 1942 while Britten was at sea, travelling from the United States to England. The piece was written at the same time as Britten's

Britten's Ceremony of Carols is one of my favourite piece of choral music but there is a surprisingly limited choice of recordings available. This record by the Copenhagen Boys is truely disppointing. The tuning is appalling throughout and annunciation (understandably!) is bad. However, the rest of the album is more satisfying.

A Ceremony of Carols, Op 28 Britten's first work for boys' voices was written (together with the Hymn to St Cecilia) during the composer's perilous voyage home from America in 1942. This cycle of medieval and sixteenth-century poems is preceded and followed by the plainsong antiphon 'Hodie' from the Christmas Eve Vespers, the source of some of the melodic cells used in various sections of the work.

Dec 15, 2015 British composer Benjamin Britten wrote his cantata, A Ceremony of Carols, during World War II while he was crossing the Atlantic in 1942 aboard a cargo ship. Since then, the choral work has become a classical music staple during the Christmas season, particularly throughout English-speaking countries.

A Ceremony of Carols is a setting for treble voices and harp of some of the medieval texts which Britten loved so much, and is heard every Christmas in cathedrals, churches and concert halls throughout the land. This fresh, sparkling performance completes a thoroughly festive release. Review. The Performance is a fine one. --IRR, Nov'12
