A beautiful concertina covering the defining events of the USA and the USSR's Cold War race into outer space. Illustrated throughout, Space Race is not only a beautiful work of art, but also comes with a timeline detailing important breakthroughs in outer space exploration on both sides of the Iron Curtain between 1957 and 1975. It's a fantastic tool for educators as well as a fun way for children to explore a defining period of the 20th century. Donna Elvira is the first to speak: "We come in night and darkness, By just resentment guided, To Heaven we have confided Our trust this woe to end." Don Ottavio, who shares Elvira's feelings, is accompanied by the same figure of the orchestra, and beseeches Donna Anna to banish all fear. But she is dreading, for her lover's sake, the issue of this enterprise. "Our path is full of danger," says she with an anxiety that is faithfully delineated by the succession of sixths in the orchestra. This movement leads to a minuet played by the band on the stage. Leporello opens the window, and, perceiving the three unknown maskers, draws his master's attention to them: "Sir, see those charming maskers, Here standing just below us!" Don Giovanni, appearing at the window, replies: "Hoping they may not know us, Ask will they please ascend." "That voice and manner, surely 'Tis he whom we are seeking!" utter the three, aside. Leporello succeeds in attracting their attention. "What is your pleasure?" inquires Don Ottavio. "My master sends to invite you An hour with him to spend," answers Leporello, to which Don Ottavio responds: "Thanks, we accept with pleasure."

Here occurs the celebrated and admirable trio, known generally as the "Trio of Masks." This piece is one of the innumerable jewels which compose the diadem of the prince of music. It is marked Adagio, but the time-signature is l/2, which indicates that there should be but two beats in the bar. The indications of a Mozart are not to be questioned, but accepted. That is a first principle. And then we must endeavour to understand them. Now it is...

Leporello est le valet de Don Giovanni dans l'opéra de Mozart, qui en fait un personnage comique. A la vérité, c'est un observateur sagace de son temps, le XVIIIe siècle, et de son maître. Il nous montre ce dernier dans toute sa vérité : blafard, méchant, vieilli avant l'âge, d'un caractère plus

To us humans the sex lives of many animals seem weird. In fact, by comparison with all the other animals, we are the ones with the weird sex lives. How did that come to be? Just count our bizarre ways. We are the only social species to insist on carrying out sex privately. Stranger yet, we have sex at any time, even when the female can't be fertilized (for example, because she is already pregnant, post-menopausal, or between fertile cycles). A human female doesn't know her precise time of fertility and certainly doesn't advertise it to human males by the striking color changes, smells, and sounds used by other female mammals. Why do we differ so radically in these and other important aspects of our sexuality from our closest ancestor, the apes? Why does the human female, virtually alone among mammals go through menopause? Why does the human male stand out as one of the few mammals to stay (often or usually) with the female he impregnates, to help raise the children that he sired? Why is the human penis so unnecessarily large? There is no one better qualified than Jared Diamond—renowned expert in the fields of physiology and evolutionary biology and award-winning author—to explain the evolutionary forces that operated on our ancestors to make us sexually different. With wit and a wealth of fascinating examples, he explains how our sexuality has been as crucial as our large brains and upright posture in our rise to human status.
